We were a little late taking part in Mental Health Awareness week this year, and actually had to run activities over two weeks as our members had lots of questions. Some members decided to make posters raising awareness of mental health, the Ask Twice campaign, and Five Ways to Wellbeing. These are proudly displayed in the building. Part of the Five Ways includes learning something new and connecting with others, so we learnt how to make mini pizzas and then played some board games. Cluedo and cards seems to have become popular!

In November we celebrated Youth Work Week, a national celebration aiming to raise awareness of youth work. It's important to remember that 'youth work' isn't just down to us because we're called a youth club. Fantastic examples exist across the village in, for example, the Scouts, Guides, and Youth Band and we would like to say thank you to these groups also for all you do for the young people in our community.

We couldn't fully celebrate Youth Work Week with all the suggested activities and themes, but we're looking to create a video that demonstrates what we do at club. Are you a budding film-maker who could help show off our best side? Know a secret editing suite we could visit? We'd love to hear from you.

As we hurtle towards Christmas, we're enjoying seeing the hall looking all festive again and we're just about ready for our next round of competitions. Who will win this time?

We wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year and look forward to reopening the Youth Club on Wednesday 8th January 2020. Watch the website for news on Youth Café.
